Volunteer Role: Editor of Saints Alive

Why did you decide to volunteer to help produce Saints Alive?

Having taken early retirement, I had some time available to help at All Saints church. All my working life was in publishing so it was nice for me to be able to continue to make some use of that experience in a voluntary capacity - involvement with the magazine helped me to do that.

What do you like most about volunteering at ASK?

Although Saints Alive is the magazine for All Saints and Saint John the Evangelist, it has a circulation of 3000 and it's delivered to homes and businesses within central Kingston – the challenge is to try to find topics for articles that will appeal to people living and/or working in this area or might be a one-off visitor the church and pick up a copy there. It's varied and it's a way to meet a variety of people – we welcome contact from anyone who's interested in contributing something that people in Kingston might be interested to read.
